

Trump Will Win

by Phillip W. Weiss

Trump is going to demolish Harris, if the election is fair. According to Fake News, Harris wants another debate. That is prime facie proof that she knows she screwed up. Trump lambasted her for seventy-five minutes. The nation watched him do it. He bashed her and she left the debate rattled and since then, has failed to deliver her message, even at interviews conducted by reporters friendly to Harris.

Harris left the debate shell shocked. Meanwhile, Trump traveled to Long Island where he had a huge rally, appeared on national television, and is dominating the narrative. Trump should tell Harris that he will debate her again if she pays him $40 million. Another debate means more free publicity for Harris at Trump's expense. Trump is the star of the show. She needs him, not the other way around.

Trump gives interviews at the drop of the hat. Trump publicly stated that Harris will kill the American dream. He issued that while speaking before a massive audience in North Carolina. Trump is the only candidate talking about the issues. Trump is lambasting Harris EVERY DAY. He doesn't stop.

What Trump is doing may be the most ongoing and continuous attack of one candidate by the other in US history. What is worse for Harris is that everything Trump is saying about her is true. She doesn't deny it. Trump has told Harris TO HER FACE that she is destroying the country, has let violent criminals into the United States, supports defunding the police, and economic policies that triggered the worst inflation in recent history. Harris responds by smirking, nervously laughing, and calling Trump a threat to democracy.

Fake News is putting out the narrative that the race is too close to call based upon fabricated poll results. One highly knowledgeable political observer said that he sees no evidence of a groundswell of support for Harris at the college campus where he teaches. Harris is running only a few campaign ads on television and is constantly soliciting for money. She has no charisma, does not attract attention, and her rallies are staged events with audiences that she buses in.

Now, please understand, Trump is not a shew in to win. First, the voting may be rigged, ballots may be lost or altered, vote harvesting may take place, non-American may vote in large numbers, all of which erode the credibility of the results. Second, no one can with absolute certainty predict the outcome of the election, even if it is conducted fairly. Voters are fickle and will vote for reasons that have nothing to do with the issues. Nevertheless, so far, all indications point to a decisive win for Trump. Time will tell.
